shopping habits.

Steve and Erin

Erin is nervous about making food with Steve because she doesn't know how to cook. She always goes to restaurants or gets takeaway. Sometimes she eats dinner at a friend's house. Salad is very easy to make.

"That sounds good. I hate chopping vegetables, especially onions. They always hurt my eyes."

Erin remembers that she doesn't have a chopping board. She doesn't have many things in her kitchen. She doesn't have a salad bowl either.

Steve and Erin

"I don't have many things for cooking in my kitchen. Maybe we should cook dinner at your place instead," she suggests.

"That's OK Erin. I know you eat out a lot," he says with a smile.

"What should we cook?" asks Erin.

"I don't know. Let's buy some stuff here and then look up a recipe on the internet when we get to my place," answers Steve.

Match the beginnings and the endings

1. Erin doesn't have a...

a. takeout or goes to restaurants.

2. Erin usually gets...

4. Erin suggests they should...

d. chopping onions.

5. Steve suggests they look up...

e. cook dinner at Steve's place.

Master chef

Erin is not a very good cook, and she is nervous about cooking with Steve. What about you? Who does the cooking and the food shopping in your house? Are you a good cook?

Guess the food

Your teacher is going to think of a food you can find at the supermarket or farmers' market. You have to guess what food they are thinking of, so ask questions to find out. Use the question ideas below to get started!

Is it sweet?

Is it a vegetable?

Can you eat it
with butter?

Do children like it
a lot?

Steve and Erin

“We should buy some meat and potatoes to go with the salad,” suggests Erin.

“That is a good idea, Erin. I have some meat, but it is in my freezer. It won’t thaw in time,” says Steve.

“The meat here is expensive. Do you want to buy it at the supermarket on our way home?” asks Erin.

“Yes, that’s a good idea. There are some other things we should buy at the supermarket too. I don’t have a lot of herbs at home. Let’s buy some fruit here before we leave. The prices are very good,” says Steve.

“We can make a fruit salad for dessert,” says Erin.

“Fruit salad is so boring! Let’s make something better. If we get some strawberries or cherries, I can make a pie!” says Steve.

Steve and Erin buy some strawberries and cherries before they go. They are excited about their dinner!
